Art Unit:

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:

I. Claims 19-23, drawn to an article of manufacture employed to treat premature ejaculation containing various selective serotonin re-uptake inhibitors (SSRI)

II. Claims 24-25, 31-32, 34-35, 43-50 and 55, drawn to treating various sexual dysfunction maladies by administering various therapeutic compositions containing various SSRI compounds.

III. Claims 26-28, 36-42 and 51-54, drawn to treating premature ejaculation and related maladies by administering various therapeutic compositions containing various SSRI compounds.

The presented inventions are only linked by the presented specification; with each invention requiring a separate distinct search and consideration. The instant application was filed under 35 USC 371, requiring restriction by unity of invention. The authority for this restriction practice is found in 37 CFR 1.499. To restrict a case filed under 35 USC 371, the Examiner need not consider the burden posed by examining additional inventions; although such burden is present in the instant case.

Patent Cooperation Rules (PCT) Rules 13.1 and 13.2 permit in a single application only one invention. Thus, an application presenting more than one invention, as in the instant case, is appropriately restricted for lack of unity.

Art Unit:

The above delineated inventions differ as various methods of manufacture for compositions and patentably distinct methods of therapy; are independent and patentably distinct each from the other. The grouped inventions differ as to their physical form and intended use, a reference which would anticipate the invention of one group would neither anticipate, nor make obvious the inventions in the other groups. The searches are not co-inclusive as indicated by the diverse nature of the subject matter. One skilled in the art would readily practice the invention of one of the above groups with out infringing and or practicing the invention of another group. The subject matter is unique and has acquired a separate status in the art and is fully capable of supporting separate patents. For the foregoing reasons restriction is proper for examination purposes.

The grouped inventions are patentably distinct, a reference which would anticipate, or make obvious, any invention from groups I-III would not necessarily obviate, or anticipate, the inventions in any other group. The searches are not co-inclusive as indicated by the diverse nature of the subject matter, thus, would represent an undue burden on Examiner. One skilled in the art would readily practice the invention of one of the above groups with out infringing and or practicing the invention of another group. Sexual dysfunction, as set forth in Group II, encompasses a plethora of maladies, to include such species as erectile dysfunction. Premature ejaculation, not seen as related to maladies such as erectile dysfunction by the skilled artisan, would therefore be patently distinct from the maladies recited in the claims of Group III. Thus, the subject matter is unique and has acquired a separate status in the art and is fully capable of supporting separate patents. For the foregoing reasons restriction is proper for examination purposes.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variations or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if Examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence may be used in a rejection under 35 USC 103 of the other invention.

Any inquiry concerning this communication should be directed to Russell Travers at telephone number (703) 308-4603.
